This Man Favors A Young Mayor

Editor of the Farmer, Sir:—

There are good reasons for the young men to use their good judgment, and support the candidacy of Edward T. Buckingham for mayor. First he is a young man, and it is of that class that must be relied on chiefly in nation, state, and locally, the old saying young men for action and old men for council still holds good, second he is an honorable man, no finger can be pointed at Edward T. Buckingham in aught but a feeling of pride at his straight forward actions in all his long service as a city official, third he is a progressive man, and knowing the needs of a city like Bridgeport, there is no reason to doubt but those needs will be ably looked after, thoroughly and without fear or favor, having known Mr. Buckingham for years, and being acquainted enough to believe that he is something of a judge of human nature, will venture the prediction, that Edward T. Buckingham will have his hands tied by no faction, but will win for the best interest of all irrespective of party. With a clean record in the past, with that record to maintain in the future, no Republican old or young need have the least hesitation in giving him his full support.

COL. ROOSEVELT AFTER A BONGO

(By Staff Correspondent.)
 London, British East Africa, Oct. 27.—Ex-President Roosevelt to-day began a hunting expedition in the Delemar ravine, the successful conclusion of which he would consider one of his greatest achievements from a scientific standpoint.
 The Colonel has gone in quest of a bongo, the rarest species of antelope known in Africa. It is said that no white man has ever killed a bongo and there is no record of a white man ever having seen one alive. Mr. Roosevelt realizes that the chances are against his success, but he announced on leaving London that he would spend a month in hunting the bongo, if success did not sooner crown his efforts.
 Before leaving here a change was decided on in the coming itinerary. Instead of proceeding to Uganda country after completing the hunt in Delemar Ravine Mr. Roosevelt, Kermit, and those associated with them, will pay a visit to the estate of Lord Delemar.

Cloths of the short-haired zibeline are again seen, though the vogue for rough fabrics has not yet reached the stage of the long-haired, shaggy zibeline of a few years ago.

DEATH ENDS

SUFFERINGS

OF D. T. ELLIS

David T. Ellis, a travelling salesman, died last night. He had been ill for several years with a disease said to be due to vaccination. Mr. Ellis was connected with the Belknap Mfg. Company as head bookkeeper. At a later period he assisted in reorganizing the Deoxidized Bronze Company. Finally he became a salesman for the Smith & Egge Company.
 Because of a small pox scare in a community where he was, some seven years ago, he permitted himself to be vaccinated. Bolls and ulcers immediately appeared about his throat and neck. Never afterward was he free from them. As an ulcer healed on one part of his body, another would break out. The ulcers sapped his system until death came.
 Mr. Ellis resided at 1607 Fairfield avenue. He was a member of Arcanum lodge, I. O. O. F. He was also Mason and a Knight Templar. The services will be under the direction of Hamilton Commandery, Knights Templar.
 Dr. Haller the attending physician requested the Farmer to-day to deny that the death of Mr. Ellis was in any way due to vaccination. Dr. Haller said that the real cause of death was tubercular peritonitis with which afflicted the deceased suffered for some time. Dr. Haller said that he had attended Mr. Ellis for the past five years.

SHE WAS PLEASANTLY SURPRISED.
 Miss H. E. Bell, Wausau, Wis., writes: "Before I commenced to take Foley's Kidney Pills I had severe pains in my back, did not sleep, and was greatly troubled with headache. The first few doses of Foley's Kidney Pills gave me relief, and two bottles cured me. The quick results surprised me, and I can honestly recommend them." F. B. CITY BRIEFS

Frank Miller was elected a vice-president of the Connecticut Prison association, at a meeting of that body in Hartford.

In a speech delivered at the factory of the Bullard Machine Tool Co. this noon Benj. Léger, the Socialist candidate for alderman from the Second district, challenged both the Republican and Democratic candidates from the Second district to meet him in debate upon the issues of the campaign. In answering Alderman Mahoney he accused him of betraying the interests of his constituents by his weak and spineless attitude upon the harbor-line question. He also issued a sweeping challenge to any old party politician in the city.

WOMAN HIT BY TRAIN

DIES OF HER INJURIES.
 Hartford, Oct. 27.—Miss Elizabeth Mulany of Newington was struck by the 10:45 express train, at union station yesterday. She crossed the tracks and was attempting to get through a barred gate when the train swept past. One of her arms was torn off and she was greatly injured. She was taken to the Hartford hospital, where she died a few hours after her admission. Her left arm was gone below the elbow and her head was gashed. It is evident that the woman was caught between the train and the fence after being hit a glancing blow by the engine.

THE COMMANDING OFFICER

In Which Bruce McRae and Isabel Irving Are Starring.

At Jackson's Theatre Tomorrow Evening For One Performance Only.

An event of more than ordinary interest to theatregoers of Bridgeport will be the attraction at the Jackson Theatre tomorrow evening when Daniel Frohman will present the new American play "The Commanding Officer," written by Theodore Burt Sayre. It is a mild comedy, with a strong interesting plot, which is finely sustained from beginning to end.

Colonel Archer (Bruce McRae) has disguised himself in one of the officers' uniforms who, at the time, was a girl. Her friend was Floyd Carroll (Isabel Irving). When the Colonel married he was ordered to a western frontier town and Floyd having lost her parents, is taken by the Colonel and his wife as their friend and companion to the army post, where, among other people concerned in the drama, are Lieutenant Hammond (Edward Martindale), Lieutenant Waring (Robert T. Haines), Brant Lindsay (Charles A. Lane), Lieutenant Billing (John Junior), a Major, a doctor, and other characters of importance, as well as several other feminine personages.

Colonel Archer is a rich man from his post, and having had a little quarrel with his young wife, she indulges in a little flirtation with Brent Lindsay, her former admirer. One of her horseback rides, she has encountered Lindsay, and, at a moment when he has kissed her against her will, Lieutenant Hammond, who has been in ambush, has photographed the act. Waring, a disorderly, dissolute character, reads money and knowing that Lindsay is a rich man, proposes to transfer the photographs to Lindsay for a big money consideration. Lindsay accedes with a certain reluctance to these means Colonel's wife to come into his room at midnight, when he claims, he will hand her back her letters and the photographs, for Mrs. Archer is very much in love with her husband and fears the threat that the photographs will be sent to him. She disposes herself in one of the officers' uniforms to go to Lindsay's house.

In the meantime, Floyd Carroll, her friend, the heroine of the play, asks her own lover, Lieutenant Hammond, to follow her and see that she comes to no harm. The streets of the little town, however, are filled with striking miners, and the woman who is disguised, frightened at the commission returns at midnight to her home, telling her friend, Floyd, that she had not visited Lindsay.

During this night Lindsay is murdered in his house. The suspicion of murder eventually falls on the wife, but Lieutenant Hammond, who has been shadowing her, discovers her as being away from his quarters that night, and is also arrested. Lieutenant Waring, who sold the photographs, was also away from his quarters. A man's shadow having been seen on the curtains at midnight where Mrs. Archer and Floyd live, suspicion points to Floyd as having been in the man's room while she was alone in the house. The goings on of the village defame her and at this juncture Colonel Archer returns from his western trip. It is in the climax of this situation which gives effect to the play and its development is carried on with interest and skill to the final curtain, when all ends right.

The play is scheduled as a New York production at Mr. Daniel Frohman's theatre. The names of Bruce McRae, Isabel Irving, Robert T. Haines, Charles A. Lane, Gertrude Dallas, Edward Martindale, Rosa Rand, and others make an excellent strong cast. Seats are now on sale.

Salome Teck Connor Has Dislocated Rib

New Haven, Oct. 27.—Teck Connor, who played Salome in the burlesque parade of the Yale Arctic Club at the Yale-Colgate football game on Saturday, is in the hospital with a dislocated rib. All the members of the club were in costume and Connor performed as Salome on the Crook and Weary program.

It is not certain whether his accident occurred during his dance or when Weary, Crook, Harry Whitney and the other Arctic figures leaped on him in the scrimmage that followed the vaudeville program.

The hospital doctors have ordered Connor never to try stunting or football again, and he has resigned his role in the Arctic Club.

Bridge Gives Way Under Steam Roller

Westbrook, Oct. 27.—Traffic was completely tied up late yesterday afternoon over the turnpike road between New Haven and New London by the giving away of Wright's bridge. The weight of a steam road roller passing over it. The road roller imbedded itself in the under planking and it will be necessary to bring a derrick to remove it. It will probably be several days before traffic will be resumed over the highway.

CONGREGATIONAL CONSOCIATION

Officers Are Chosen at 173rd Meeting.

Reports read yesterday at the one hundred and seventy-third meeting of the Fairfield East Consociation of Congregational churches at Olivet church in this city, showed a satisfactory increase in the churches represented. About 18 churches had delegates at the meeting. Two of the most interesting reports read were those from the First church of Danbury, which dedicated a building which cost about $150,000, and the Second church of the King's Highway chapel of this city which has gained 50 members and has raised the mortgage on the church property.

PRESIDENT TAFT COMMENDS WORK

(Special from United Press.)
 New York, Oct. 27.—President Taft, by a strong letter from President Taft, commendatory of its contemplated work, the National Conservation Association opened its main offices in the Fifth Avenue building today. The association has for its general object the practical application, through legislative and administrative means, of the conservation of the natural resources of the United States at their conference with President Taft at the White House in May 1908.

The officers are President Dr. Chas. W. Elliot of Cambridge, Mass.; vice president Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, secretary Thomas R. Snipp of Indianapolis.

The chairman of the executive committee is John E. Bascom of Chicago, well known as a war correspondent and the executive director of Royal L. Melandry of Chicago. Former Secretary of the Interior, James R. Garfield is a member of the advisory board.

The following letter from President Taft to President Elliot of the organization was made public today:

"I am glad to hear that the National Conservation Association has been formed under such a distinguished and capable leader and with a membership open to every American citizen. Our people cannot do a more useful thing for themselves and for the country than to give personal consideration to the great issues that are involved in what we have come to call the conservation movement. It is of the greatest importance that this movement should proceed both wisely and effectively and the Conservation Association should be a valuable instrumentality for accomplishing this result.

"I shall be glad to have you enroll my name in its membership."
 (Signed) W. H. TAFT.

State to Disband Branford Battery

Branford, Oct. 27.—One of the officers of Battery A, C. N. G., states that the battery has been issued an order of the adjutant general in Hartford to have all the equipment of the battery turned in.

The officers are considering what steps they can take to prevent this, but it is probable that nothing can be done. For some years there has been talk of disbanding the battery and reorganizing a battery in one of the cities. It being the policy of the State to have the military companies in the cities rather than in the small towns.

OUT OF STATE OWNERS MUST PAY TAXES NOW.

A feature of the legislation which was passed at the last session of the general assembly and which has not attracted much notice is the law which requires that henceforth non-residents who have maintained large summer homes in the state where live must pay taxes on the property. The law has been maintained and henceforth have to pay taxes on the property to the town in this state in which the property is held instead of being exempt. It is believed this will be a great help to the small towns where the all year round residents have hitherto had to stand for all the taxes.

PRINCE ITO'S SON DEEPLY AFFECTED

TALK NO. 453

TWO ON ONE.

(Special from United Press.)

Genoa, Oct. 27.—The son of Prince Ito, the Japanese statesman slain by a Korean at Harbin, Manchuria, was deeply affected to-day when he was told of his father's death. The son had been informed on his arrival aboard the Asutamaru that Prince Ito had been seriously wounded but the full extent of the tragedy was kept from him until to-day.
 The statesman's son declared that Koreans had made a serious mistake in assassinating Prince Ito. His father, he said, was the truest friend of Korea in the public life of Japan. He pointed out that Prince Ito had been violently opposed for the mildness of his treatment of the Koreans and that Japan had always partly resented his Korean policy. Ito's resignation as resident general at Seoul, he said, was due partly to the insistence of the war party that he employ more rigorous methods in subduing Korea.
 The young man expressed the opinion that the assassination of his father was a part of a general plot which began with the killing of the American adviser of the Japanese government Durham White Stevens, in San Francisco a year ago.

If you use one pair of glasses for distant vision and a different pair for near work try bifocals. They save carrying an extra pair and saving changing glasses a hundred times a day. They are always in place and always ready for use. If you have tried them and did not like them it was probably because they were not made especially for you. With most folks they are easy to become accustomed to and are a great convenience. We are making them up so neatly that the dividing line is scarcely perceptible.

Modern Culture Demands At Least An Acquaintance With Good Music

THERE is no necessity for one to be a writer to be familiar with good literature. Neither is it now requisite to be a musician in order to become acquainted with good music.

Some knowledge of both these branches of art is demanded by the usages of polite society.

It will be more fascinating, because calling for the exercise of whatever artistic feeling you possess.

Besides its immense value as a means of broadening your mental horizon, the PIANOLA Piano is the greatest fun provider ever invented. Your children, most of your friends and you yourself in your lighter moments will greatly appreciate this.

Wouldn't it be worth your while to investigate this instrument, which has given to so many others a liberal education in music and a thorough enjoyment of the art?
